GEORGE LIELE
c. 1750–1820

TOGETHER, WE CARRY ON A LEGACY OF MISSION

One of the most significant figures in the history of Christian missions is a freed Georgia slave named George Liele.

Liele became the first ordained African American Baptist preacher and missionary from America when he left Savannah for Kingston, Jamaica in 1782.

Today, we honor Liele's legacy with the George Liele Scholarship to support the growth of international missions knowledge and experiences among Black and African American Southern Baptist churches.

Whether you go, or give to empower the next generation of missionaries, together we carry on Liele's mission to see the gospel reach every corner of the earth.
